The Purpose of the Study

Thank you for participating in my study, your participation is very valuable to me. In brief, I am looking at the connection between childhood fears and adulthood fears, how each relates to view of one's parents as positive or negative figures and the security of the attachment relationships with parents and with others. I hypothesize that children and adults with fewer fears are more likely to have positive views of parents and good quality of attachment relationships than are those with more fears. I am also curious about how the overall trait of anxiety influences fears.

Thanks again!
